Positions on the Cello. Once you have thoroughly learnt the neck positions (from half position to fourth position), it's time to break into the higher register of the cello. Beyond fourth position, we encounter a new fingering system to accommodate the diminishing physical space between the fingers and the changing angle of the left arm.

A possible solution is therefore to shift position to allow the use of a stronger finger. For example, the note D on the A string will be played by the 4th finger in 1st position, but, by moving the have to the 3rd position, you will be able to play it on the much stronger 1st finger. 4. You may wish to create a different type of sound.
